

Audubon Youth Leaders

Inclusive high school conservation internship

Grow native plants, restore nature, advocate for environmental justice and connect with others outdoors

$500 stipend! Hiking! Camping! Camaraderie!

Audubon Youth Leaders practice leadership skills, explore various career paths, and engage with the environment through hands-on experiences in conservation science and exploring local ecology and natural areas.

With the mentorship of Audubon staff and the support of their peers, AYLS lead projects that engage their own passions to make a real difference in their community.

I had a great time this year and it has definitely motivated me to do more. It has helped solidify my decision to become an environmental studies major in college.

I will remember the experience of working together on a project and being cooperative with others

I really liked seeing the sunsets at the Audubon Center while we were doing trail work
